Content of the course

The course aims to be a valuable tool for students to have the information necessary to acquire a good pronunciation of the German language.

For this purpose the course will be divided into a first part of general introduction to phonetics, with the deepening of both the phonatory apparatus and the ways and places of articulation; and in a second part where the same problems will be dealt with in relation to the specificities of the German language.

To complete the course there will be practical exercises to read texts taken from both the vocal chamber music and the opera repertoire. The reading will be collective with the aid of video projections and slides.
